COUNCIL AIRS WATERWORKS OPERATIONS

$10,000 Transferred to Operate Department for Balance of Year

RECOMMENDATIONS OF CHAIRMAN HEARD

Solons Fail to Pass Upon Proposals During Lengthy Session

City council heard reports on the operations of the waterworks department, received recommendations and approved an ordinance transferring $10,000 to insure operations of the department for the balance of the year during a lengthy session Tuesday night in council chambers of city hall.

Arch Wentz, chairman of the water committee, said that Service Director Charles Kennedy, in explaining that present funds were depleted, had asked for between $15,000 and $20,000 to carry his department through the rest of the year.

Wentz, appealing to other members of council to endeavor to keep down costs and to make no unnecessary improvements, recommended that the steam compressor at the pumping station be shut down for a month's trial and that only electrically-controlled mechanism be used to see if the plan would exact a savings for the city.

Motion Dies On Floor

With the firing of the boilers no longer necessary, the city could lay off one fireman and two laborers at the pumping station, he explained. The water committee chairman also recommended the removal of the two guards at the well fields because one man on duty at the well fields was not sufficient or capable protection, he said.

The recommendations went unapproved for the time being when Councilman A. P. Morris' motion to sanction Wentz' proposal failed to receive a second and no vote was taken.

The water committee is expected to get together in the near future to discuss the recent increase in the number of requests of property owners for water line extensions. Councilman Harry Vincent, also a member of the water committee, said he believed that the committee could meet and give priority ratings to certain requests.

Members C. F. Zimmerman and Fred Koerreich said they believed that council should receive estimates on water line extension proposals before going ahead with them.

Zimmerman also called attention to the fact that the waterworks department, handicapped by lack of funds, probably would lose between $10,000 and $20,000 as a result of the rate reduction put into effect by Mayor Norman Phillips.

Regarding water line extensions, Service Director Kennedy said he was in favor of making them first in residential districts already built up, leaving new home allotments come second.

Wentz also recommended that council approve installation of a "flushion" between the basins and

Huge Tax Bill Nearly Ready

Walter F. George, Robert Doughton and Jere Cooper

Introduced four months ago, the government's new tax bill, largest in history, is nearly ready for final votes. A joint senate-house committee agreed on the $3,553,400,000 revenue bill which imposes heavier income levies on both individuals and corporations and raises the existing schedule of excise or "nuisance" taxes. Income tax exemptions in the new bill are lowered from $2,000 to $1,500 for married persons and from $800 to $750 for single individuals. The tax conferees above include Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, left, chairman of the senate finance committee; Representative Robert Doughton of North Carolina, center, chairman of the house ways and means committee, and Representative Jere Cooper of Tennessee, a member of Doughton's committee.

(By Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 17.—The American Legion national convention today adopted resolutions proposing the removal of geographic limitations on the use of American troops and calling for the defeat of Adolf Hitler "and all that stands for."

PRESBYTERIANS TO MEET HERE OCT. 10

Plans Made at Meeting Yesterday for Convocation On Foreign Affairs

J. H. Campbell and Rev. R. D. Walter, Salem delegates to a meeting of the Mahoning Presbytery at Kinsman yesterday, reported that plans are being completed for a convocation on foreign affairs to be held here Friday, Oct. 10.

Approximately 250 persons are expected for a dinner to be served in the church preceding the convocation, which will be in charge of six outstanding Presbyterian leaders from New York City. Simultaneously, 100 young people will be served in a special banquet at the Christian church.

Mrs. T. A. Mercer, Mrs. J. C. Pottorff and Mrs. Park Miskimins are members of the local committee for the event. George Meiser is the representative of the church session on the committee.

Other business at the Presbytery meeting in Kinsman yesterday included an address by Dr. Howard Talbot, national missions chairman, who reported that Ohio is one of the greatest mission synods in the United States. The Youngstown area, he reported is one of the greatest in the amount of need because of its industrial nature. Fourteen churches in the Mahoning Presbytery receive aid from the Board of national missions. He said one of the most interesting is the Campbell Christian Neighborhood house which ministers to 20 different nationalities.

Delegates also heard an address by Dr. E. A. Walker, general Presbyterian representative on the committee for Christian education. He announced plans for a Mahoning Presbytery youth meeting at Lisbon on Sunday, Oct. 12.

Truck-Train Collision at Ravenna Is Fatal to Two

RAVENNA, Sept. 17.—A truck driver and a trainman were killed in the collision of a truck-trailer outfit and a freight locomotive near the main entrance of the Ravenna ordnance plant yesterday.

They were Robert W. Pariso of Malvern, the trucker, and Harold W. Denney of Cleveland, locomotive fireman.

Denney died in a fall from the engine after the truck's gasoline tank exploded, spraying the train's cab with flames.

CLAIM NAZIS HURLED BACK IN OFFENSIVE

Russians Say Counter-Attack Successful In 8-Day Battle

10,000 GERMANS DEAD OR WOUNDED, REPORT

Hitler, Meanwhile, Concedes Nazi Movements Are Extensive

(By Associated Press)
Russia's armies today reported a smashing counter-offensive on the central front, 30 miles north-east of Smolensk, in which the Germans were hurled back westward with 10,000 killed and wounded after an eight-day battle.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said the fighting raged around Yartsevo, on the main highway between Smolensk and Moscow. Other dispatches said the Russians, still pressing the attack, now were in a position to invest Smolensk.

Soviet reports also declared that Red army troops defending Leningrad had recaptured a strategically important crossroads village lying at one of the approaches to the northern industrial city, thus wrecking German plans for a new thrust against Leningrad itself.

Captured Six Weeks Ago
Lying 230 miles west of Moscow, Smolensk was captured by the Germans more than six weeks ago in the first head-long drive toward the Russian capital.

While the Russians claimed a staggering defeat for the Germans on the central (Moscow) front, Adolf Hitler's high command asserted that the German offensive was "developing into an operation of the greatest extent."

Beyond this general statement, the high command gave no details, but Nazi military dispatches said German panzer columns slashing eastward across the steppes from the Dnieper to the Donets river industrial basin.

In the north, Nazi armies were said to have unleashed a new drive to choke off rail supplies from Moscow feeding the Red armies defending Leningrad.

Advices reaching London said Adolf Hitler's invasion forces, backed for the moment by Leningrad's stone wall defense, were striking to the west along the 400-mile rail line between Moscow and the besieged old czarist capital.

If successful, these reports said, the Germans would seriously hamper the movement of supplies to the Red armies along the entire northern front and make their position extremely hazardous.

German military dispatches said Russian troops swooping down from the Waldai highlands, about 25 miles northwest of Bologoe, twice attempted to break through Nazi lines at Staraya Russa but finally were thrown back across the Lovat river.

BRITISH, RUSSIANS ENTERING TEHRAN

Arrival at Iran Capital Follows Abdication of Ruler, Reza Pahlavi

(By Associated Press)

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 17.—Russian and British staff officers entered Tehran today as their mechanized forces surrounded the capital.

The Russian forces had come down from the northwest, the British up from the southwest, leaving their previous zones of occupation to take over the capital in the wake of yesterday's abdication of the ruler, Reza Shah Pahlavi, and his succession by his 21-year-old son.

Iranian troops stood guard in the streets of Tehran as a precaution against disorder as British and Russian forces approached the capital from opposite directions with the intention of occupying it some time today.

It was expected that the Russians, whose motorized advance guards were less than 30 miles north of the city yesterday, would be the first to enter.

(An authoritative British source in London said that occupation of Tehran would depend on the situation there and declared the converging British and Russian forces might remain outside the Iranian capital.)

CIO CONFERS WITH 4 FIRMS

Contract with 'Little Steel' Groups Aim of Youngstown Meetings

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 17.—In a series of conferences, the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing committee has opened negotiations with four "Little Steel" companies for a contract embodying, among other things, a union shop and a check-off dues collection system.

The first meetings, held yesterday, were brief and given chiefly to a general discussion of contracts. Conferences were with the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. here; Republic Steel Corp. at Cleveland; Bethlehem Steel Corp. at New York, and Inland Steel Co. at Indiana Harbor, Ind.

The negotiations were started under a National Labor Relations board stipulation for company recognition of the SWOC in all plants where it won elections recently.

A statement of policy released by Clinton S. Golden of Pittsburgh, regional SWOC director, said:

"Provisions must be made for establishment of a union shop wherein management will retain complete authority to hire employees from any source, but that all employees of the corporations must after a trial period become and remain members of good standing the SWOC."

"The corporations shall check off from the wages of their employees the dues and initiation fees owing to the SWOC, which shall be voluntarily authorized by the employees."

A five-day, 40-hour week with time and one-half pay for overtime, a seniority system and machinery for handling grievances and wage adjustments also are demanded. Golden's statement said.

"All the companies" (with whom union is negotiating) have signed formal stipulations with the labor board that they will reduce the negotiated contracts to writing and sign them, in contrast to their refusal to do so in 1937, resulting in the so-called "Little Steel strike," Golden added.

The conference with Sheet & Tube was adjourned until Sept. 25. Bethlehem's until next Tuesday. The four companies employ about 170,000 persons.

ALLIANCE MAN HURT AS TRACTOR UPSETS

Jacob Courtney, 66, of Alliance, is in critical condition in Alliance hospital from injuries sustained yesterday when a tractor he was operating on the farm of his son, Ralph, north of Beloit, overturned, pinning him beneath it.

He suffered a fractured left leg and a multiple fracture of the pelvic bone.

Courtney formerly operated the farm on which he was injured but had transferred it to his son about five years ago. He then moved to Alliance. Yesterday he returned to the farm to help with the mowing.

At the time of the accident he had completed the work and was driving the tractor back to the barn, with the mower already unattached.

The accident happened as Courtney drove the tractor over a small embankment. His cries attracted Henry Fanford, a neighboring farmer.

City Will Sell Old Streetcar Rails As Metal for Defense

The abandoned streetcar rails in the city soon may be transferred into weapons for the nation's defense.

When City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff told members of city council Tuesday night that the government wanted to purchase the rails—about 50 tons in all—council authorized legislation to clear the way for their removal and sale.

Purchase of the rails by the government will net the city approximately $1,600, the engineer said. An offer of $24 a ton has been received.

He explained that the government would send in a crew of men to tear up the rails, but that the city would be responsible for cutting them into sections and hauling them to a loading station. He said the metal probably would find its way into the arsenal plant at Ravenna.

The rails which remain in the city are on S. Broadway, on Franklin st. between Broadway and Ellsworth, and on S. Ellsworth between Franklin and the Pennsylvania railroad tracks. Another 200 feet or so of rails are buried beneath asphalt on N. Ellsworth ave., just north of State st. These rails will be left untouched.

KANSAS CITY STRIKE ENDS

Official Action Brings End Of Trouble Which Caused Blackout

(By Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 17.—Swift official action today checked an unheralded power strike which blacked out this city of 400,000 for four hours, plunging hospital operating rooms into darkness and stalling streetcars and trolley buses.

Police seized six men involved in what Mayor John B. Gage called an outlaw strike against the Kansas City Power and Light Co. A battalion of the recently organized Missouri home guard was mobilized by Gov. Forest O. Donnell and another was ordered to stand alert. Neither was called into action immediately.

Albert F. Wright, representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL, was arrested at a power plant by order of Police Chief Harold Anderson. He was released on bond after being held incommunicado several hours.

Anderson said charges of sabotage or malicious mischief would be sought against the other five men arrested—all striking employees.

A police detail headed by Mayor Gage and Chief Anderson ejected some 25 strikers from the northeast power station. Current poured back through the lines as non-strikers went back to work under police protection.

The strike grew out of a jurisdictional dispute between the AFL union and the independent union of utility employees and the company.

Master switches of the light company were thrown at the stroke of midnight to launch the strike with breath-taking suddenness.

Threatened with complete shutdown was the city's entire industrial activity, much of it given over to defense work.

3,000 ARE IDLE IN STRIKE AT McDONALD

YOUNGSTOWN, Sept. 17.—Three thousand workers were idle and operations at a steel mill today in the finishing plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co. in the suburb of McDonald, as the result of an "unauthorized" walkout of CIO machinists.

John L. Mayo, district director of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, said the union had not authorized the work stoppage.

Local union officials made no announcement of the workers' grievances, but company spokesmen said wages were at a part of the issues. The SWOC holds a contract with the company, a subsidiary of United States Steel Corp.

Machinists are necessary to the operation of the plant's dozen finishing mills, and their departure gradually brought about a suspension of operations. Half the mills ceased to function during yesterday afternoon, and the remainder went out of operation last night.

THIRTY-ONE KNOWN DEAD IN DISASTER

Explosion Rips One Ship, Causes Two Others To Sink In Harbor

VESSELS WERE RIDING AT ANCHOR AT TIME

Raging Oil Fires Around Scene of Accident Hinder Rescue Efforts

(By Associated Press)
A series of mysterious explosions shattered and sank three Swedish destroyers riding at anchor off the east coast of neutral Sweden today, with first reports declaring at least 31 officers and crewmen were killed.

Raging oil fires around the scene of the triple disaster, in Haarfjaerden fjord, south of Stockholm, seriously hampered rescue efforts. All ambulances in Stockholm were rushed to the spot and the entire Swedish coastal fleet was assigned to pick up survivors.

No immediate details were forthcoming as to the cause of the blasts.

One Craft Explodes First

Early reports established that one officer, six non-commissioned officers and 24 marines were killed. Eleven others were injured.

Swedish authorities said the explosions apparently started on one ship and sank all three, one after the other.

The explosions occurred in Haarfjaerden harbor, on the Baltic sea coast south of Stockholm, used by Sweden's rapidly expanding navy as a proving ground.

All three destroyers were relatively new and Swedish-built. The 1,040-ton Göteborg, completed in 1936, was said to have blown up and sunk first. Explosions followed on the sister vessels Klas Horn and Klas Uggle, each of 1,020 tons.

(A dispatch from Stockholm to the Swedish-American news exchange said a boiler explosion aboard the Göteborg was the cause of the disaster. This would indicate that ammunition may have been set off and hit the other ships.)

The Klas Horn sank quickly and the crippled Klas Uggle went down later.

Details of the series of blasts still were obscure, however, as every available coastal boat put out to rescue survivors and recover the bodies of the dead from the burning waters.

QUOTA CLUB PLANS DISTRICT MEETING

Plans for an inter-city party Oct. 28 for clubs in the sixth district and arrangement for sending delegates to the district conference in Akron, Oct. 11-12 were discussed during the dinner meeting of the Quota club at the Memorial building last night.

The inter-city affair, featuring a dinner and program, will be held in the Presbyterian church. Members of the inter-city committee, Misses Alice Gladden, Blanche Kyle, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, Miss Eva Simpson, and Mrs. Helen Brumbaugh, and the October program group, including Mrs. Baker and Miss Tamar Thurman are completing arrangements for the event.

The annual sixth district conference in Akron will be attended by Miss Mona McArthur, president of the club, Miss Martha Wirs as delegates, and by several other members.

A report was given of the club's last meeting Sept. 2 at which Miss Mary O. Harrison, district governor, and Miss Lucy Alexander, members of the Canton organization, were guests.

The program last evening, presented by Miss Gladden as chairman of the committee, included interesting accounts of vacation trips by Miss Nellie Cowan, who traveled during the summer in the Canadian northwest and Alaska, and by Miss Ruth Hoch, who toured the west, visiting in Yellowstone National park and other places of interest.

The group will meet again Sept. 30.

THE BLESSINGS OF LIBERTY

The fundamental law of the United States is 154 years old. The original Constitution, consisting of the preamble and the first seven articles, was adopted Sept. 17, 1787. Ten amendments, the Bill of Rights, declared in force Dec. 15, 1791, completed the original document. There have been 11 amendments added since then.

In each case, however, the amendments have contributed to the original purpose of the Constitution as stated in the preamble—"to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity." The political stability which has grown out of America's determination to cling to that which is good is one of the great triumphs of man over the problems of social organization.

Other governments have risen and fallen with ruinous regularity during the century and a half that the United States has lived under its Constitution. With the exception of Great Britain, there has been no other important society similarly blessed with constant purpose and unwavering conviction. Freedom from upheaval and overturn has been responsible for much of America's progress; it was planned that way by the founding fathers, who builded better than they knew.

There is, of course, no magic inherent in the Constitution, which might be adopted word for word by some other country with nothing but tragic results. The magic has been in the minds of the citizens of a great nation who stood determined to secure the blessings of liberty for themselves and their posterity. Their determination today is stronger than ever before.

ROUTED RUSSIANS

Of the various expressions used by German communiques writers to put the best possible face on news from the eastern front, least convincing is anything suggesting that the Russians are retreating.

Russian strategy calls for resistance up to but never past the point of retaining ability to fall back. The invaders must be made to pay heavily for every inch of ground gained, but they must never be permitted to cash in. Russia has plenty of space in which to retreat.

Germany's objective in the Russian campaign is not territory. It is annihilation of the Russian army, which would leave the remains of the German army free to deal with the problems of empire, including the climactic struggle to destroy Great Britain as a major power. As long as the Russian army can continue to fall back in semblance of order—as long as the German army must move forward into Russia—the odds against Russia are not overwhelming. If the German army is forced to spend a winter in the open—and the northern Russian winter will descend soon—its chances of destroying the Russian army will be infinitely gloomier next spring than they are now. There is no worse news for Germany than the Russian army in retreat after stubborn resistance. In the classic example of the strategy used against Napoleon, Russian retreat easily might be the ruination of Hitler's dream, too.

WHAT WAS THE ALTERNATIVE?

The United States navy is under orders to make waters under its patrol safe from Axis raiders. If there are no raiders, there will be no hostile action. If raiders are found, on the other hand, there will be action. That will be war.

Some critics of the administration are taking the attitude that this situation could have been averted, that there was an alternative. They are right. There was an alternative. One wonders how much thought they have given to it.

Under the alternative, the United States would not have passed the lease-lend act. It would not have traded destroyers for naval bases. It would not have sent war material to Great Britain after the debacle at Dunkirk. The British would have been told to sink or swim.

They would have been given no protection in the north Atlantic that they could not have afforded themselves. There would have been no meeting of minds on any questions of war policy. The United States would have gathered its coastlines about it, so to speak, and waited for something to turn up.

The something might have been a Germany ready to fight it out with the United States singlehanded for control of the Atlantic, the Caribbean, the Panama canal, the Mediterranean and, with the aid of Japan, the Pacific and Indian oceans. True, it hasn't been possible yet for Germany to get into position to threaten such a thing even without being handicapped greatly by United States aid to its opponents, but when speaking of the alternative to taking a stitch in time one must prepare for the worst, because that's what usually happens in the absence of precautions.

On the other hand, the something might have been a victorious Britain. If it hadn't, though, the recriminations would have flown thick and fast. Why didn't that fellow in the White House take a stitch in time? Why did he wait until the horse was stolen before locking the barn door?

MECHANIZED WAR ON DEAD CENTER

Three things have contributed to Russia's stubborn resistance: Large numbers of planes, large numbers of tanks, and strategy. These have made it possible for an army that was not expected to distinguish itself to spring a surprise on what was believed to be relatively the most potent army ever assembled.

The potency of the German army under Hitler consisted in its relative superiority, which has been dwindling in direct ratio to the success of other armies in closing the gap between their equipment and the vitality of their officers and the equipment and officers of the German army. Two years of observing the modern reichswehr in the field have revealed what needs to be done to offset its technique; the Russians with their planes and tanks and counter-blitzkrieg strategy have demonstrated what needs to be done to offset Germany's early advantage in its latest bid for conquest. The same thing happened in World War I. Germany, which seemed unstoppable at first, bogged down gradually as the opposition studied its military technique and matched its machinery. Mechanized war can be stalled on dead center. The modern rule is "Hit the fustest with the mostest machinery"—instead of the "mostest men." Whenever the other side makes a dead heat of it, the magic of surprise disappears.

For Thursday, September 18.

GREAT ambitions and bold projects move to high accomplishment, according to the powerful lunar and mutual aspects. New and perhaps revolutionary prepositions of either public or private interest may be stimulated to decisive and aggressive measures where innovation and audacity count, if backed up by logic, practicality and not too zealously or recklessly pushed.

Those whose birthday it is should be on the threshold of a year of outstanding achievements, with business, possessions, finances and all kinds of ventures and enterprises under decisive stimulus for success and unprecedented expansion. It is a time for moving upon high goals with assurance, expressing ingenuity, skill and splendid resourcefulness and originality unto the full. Others may cooperate generously.

A child born on this day should be bounteously gifted with talents and creative ability to attain splendid success and good fortune in life. It should rise to enviable position and enjoy much personal happiness.

DEAFNESS DISCUSSED BY DOCTOR

Progressive Deafness Comes In Middle Life

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
An ear specialist showed me a letter the other day from a patient, which had substantially this complaint, "You took $25 from me and all I got for it was that you told me you could do nothing for me."

"Now," the ear specialist said, "this is exactly what I did tell him. I said that from my twenty-five years' experience I did not believe any treatment I could give him would substantially prevent the progress of his deafness. Furthermore, I said, in order to earn my money I feel I should give you the only advice that I think will conserve your future health and happiness. First, begin to learn lip reading right away. Second, experiment to find out whether you can obtain a hearing aid which will be satisfactory to you."

This is practically saying the same thing as, in the words of a noted authority, "If there is the slightest risk that deafness is progressive, action must be taken to forestall social, temperamental and mental damage. Prevention is much easier and more effective than patching up after the worst has happened."

Learn New Habits
All deafness is not the same and this advice does not apply to all people but it is a tragic fact that nobody believes when he begins to get deaf, that he is ever going to get any worse. Inasmuch as progressive deafness comes on in middle life when it is difficult to form new habits and learn lip reading, the time is put off until too late to do any good.

This mental attitude that "It can't happen to me" prevents people from realizing how much hearing they have lost because their family and friends learn to raise their voices. If one of them doubts this, as a test ask the members of the family to talk in a perfectly ordinary tone of voice. Don't look at the speaker. Try hearing without benefit of lip reading at ten, fifteen or twenty feet. If you are shocked by the discovery, be thankful about it. You have done yourself a great service.

Hearing Aids
The progressive deafness of middle age can sometimes be halted in its progress. But, at best, it is inevitable. It is simply put off a few years.

Hearing aids have been greatly improved both in appearance, size and effectiveness. They exercise the function of hearing. Dr. Walter Wells says, "Now and then I have encountered objections to use of hearing aids on the ground that they are like crutches on which the user must always depend, and continued use might injure the hearing."

"The comparison is not an apt one. A crutch is something which provides a substitute for normal exercise. A hearing aid is exactly the contrary; it provides normal exercise where it otherwise does not exist. A function that is not exercised deteriorates, and that is just as true of the hearing as of any other function of the body."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
G. R. C.:—"Is there any danger of infection in the arm following the inoculation to prevent diphtheria? I have a fear of being inoculated. I have heard of abscesses being caused by inoculations."

Answer—"Infections occur only about once every two thousand cases. Of course, proper precautions must be taken."

Reader:—"Does a cystic cervix have a tendency to become cancerous?"

Answer—"Not in my opinion. However, it may cause chronic bad health, and since it is easy to correct, I would advise that it be done."

R. R.:—"I have followed the Lenten diet published in your column and lost 8 pounds. I would like to lose about 15 pounds more. Would you advise repeating this diet? Will the diet result in high blood pressure?"

Answer—"I would advise repeating the diet. There is no danger attached to it and it will not cause high blood pressure. Rather the contrary—it will reduce blood pressure."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendinging has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendinging, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

"I could kick myself!"

So you've been overeating again! Things looked so good you kept right on. And then gas. Stomach and intestines feel inflated like a balloon and breathing becomes an effort. If your bowels are lazy they, too, object. Well, for such occasions there's ADLERKA. An effective blend of 5 carminatives and 3 laxatives for DOUBLE ACTION. Gas is quickly relieved and gentle bowel action follows. Get ADLERKA from your druggist TODAY.

PUPPET LOVE by Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr.

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

Nicky was nervous as she lined up her small performers, and put them through a swift rehearsal to be assured their strings were working properly. Eunice, huddled at the trailer door, with a small crowd which, now included half a dozen fellows, all of them strangers, to Chris. Eunice's high voice carried above the chatter of the others.

"I wouldn't have missed this show for worlds. I hear this is too clever. I can't imagine why the New York papers haven't got it before this, but they undoubtedly will."

So that was it! She was threatening publicity, knowing a Bishop would always make front page news. Did she have a price or was she going to be charmed to bid scores? And Eunice had plenty of old scores. His mother, for instance, who didn't consider that the Badminton Grants existed.

Then there was Mrs. Bishop's open sponsoring of Nancy Butterworth for daughter-in-law. Nancy had gone to school with Eunice, and they had come out bosom enemies. Then there was Rodney's devotion to Nicky. Yes, Eunice had many scores to settle.....

Chris's nerves were more taut than the strings on his banjo when the audience was assembled, and the curtains parted. This was the loveliest setting in which Nicky's Marionettes had ever played, the black rolled lawn, the background of pines and rhododendron, the smart assemblage. But never had the performance seemed so long, though seldom had it had a better reception.

Nicky used three of her most sophisticated satires, ending with the gay little love travesty which he had first heard her give, in which the doll, Eulalie (who was Eunice on strings) spun continuously in the role of the girl in the social whirl. Eunice, recognizing herself, led the applause, but did she think of her brother or of her self, when Nicky's voice recited: "I've seen his castles with slippery floors, And glass for roof and walls and doors, I'd rather live in smaller places, Surrounded by kindly, gentle faces."

With the show over, Eunice Grant and Dorothy Wendworth were all congratulations and urgent invitations to come to the bar and stay to dinner. The remainder of the audience needed no special invitation to the bar. They were heading in that direction, where onwards were placing tables for those who wished to do their imbibing seated.

Chris declined firmly, and Nicky, too, was in no mood to linger. It was as though they both expected a thunder-storm out of the clear blue of the afternoon sky.

Eunice watched with seeming innocent interest as they assembled the equipment.

Buy with his work, Chris paid no attention to the small murmur of grumblings from the dispersing spectators to a tall thin girl in white. He didn't even notice her as she strode purposefully among the scattered chairs to within hailing distance of Nemesis. He'd already been paid for the performance. Now for a discreet departure.

Then perhaps it was the faint purr murmur from Eunice, or the suppressed glug of excitement from Ducky, or the impelling psychic something that makes one aware of staring eyes. In any case, Chris glanced over his shoulder as his hands remained flat on the panels, as though painted on the friendly surface of Nemesis. He blinked fiercely, hopefully, to clear his vision of the nightmare, the delusion.... but the voice was real and as actual as a stone in your shoe.

"Christopher!"

His voice was faint, almost inaudible: "Nancy Butterworth!"

Christopher Allen Bishop was confronted with civilized man's most difficult problem: His defense against a woman! Scarcely ten yards separated him from the advancing Nancy. Only the thin rear wall of the trailer Nemesis divided them from Nicky.

At that moment, she sang out that she was all set to go, while Eunice, who had been standing at Nemesis' side door, turned. Her little hands flew up in a gesture of too much surprise.

"Nicky, Nancy Butterworth what a delightful surprise—for all of us!"

"Whether it was Eunice's tone or Nicky's voice innocently urging him to come—or the combination of all three—Chris didn't know, but in the second that Nancy stood before him and spoke in her voice with its unfortunate emotional tremolo, a swift heady glow swept over him. With a broad smile, he thrust his hand at Nancy, and gripped hers. It was the hearty gesture that Slim or Joe might have made.

"Christopher," Nancy quavered, "what—what is the—the meaning of—this?"

"Hello, Nan!" he pumped her arm vigorously. "Never expected to run into you down here. Thought you were still with the circus in New York." Eunice boldly moved a step nearer, and Nicky appeared at the trailer door.

"Circus?" Nancy gasped. "What do you mean?"

"Why the society girl act in that circus. You've got what it takes for that!"

"You—" she began, and there was a faint gurgling echo from Eunice in the background. "You thought you fooled me, hey? Not a chance." "Fooled you? Why I simply left the circus, gave up the idea of becoming an animal trainer."

Chris, as he talked, folded the steps and locked the door. Slim, the Wendworth chauffeur, had already hitched Nemesis to the car. Meanwhile, "You can see I've changed my act—" Bishop told Nancy, who followed him dazedly. "Changed it for good and all. I'm through with the circus. There's nothing to it!"

"All set!" Slim shouted.

"But, Christopher," Nancy was gray-green beneath her tan. "What are you talking about? I don't—"

"I told you," he cried. "I've changed my act. I'm a strong man now. So long!"

He scooped Nicky up in his arms, dropped her into the driver's seat and, standing on the running board, murmured: "Step on it!"

Nicky stepped. The car swung around the drive, Nemesis swaying behind. Chris waved to the astonished Nancy and Eunice.

"You go ahead," he ordered, as he dropped off the car at the gate, which was a quarter of a mile from the house and ran for the roadster, hitched to the Arab.

"But which way do we go from here?" she called.

"Straight ahead," he ordered. Ahead, away that was all that mattered. Would they follow him?

A few moments later Chris had passed Nicky and was taking the lead. They'd stay on no main highways now. Soon the trailers were bumping along over corduroy roads and corrugated wagon tracks that were worse than no roads at all.

At sundown, Chris stopped at a small general store at a cross-road. He was tired, more physically weary than he's ever been in his life. He realized he'd been driving the car as though it were his enemy rather than the motor that pulled the trailer over the hills.

He yelled to Nicky to wait. In the shadowy store with its predominating odor of kerosene, against musty undertone of feed, etc., Chris bought an armful of canned goods and asked for the telephone.

It was a small ancient apparatus with a coffee grinder handle at the side. It required patience, cash, and almost a little drag to get a call through to New York. It would be seven o'clock, New York time—Uncle Neddy's cocktail hour. Chris was grim. The Major could object all he wanted to, but he had to head off the publicity.

The voices of a dozen operators came and went over the wires. Bishop's side was numb from leaning down to the low wall phone. Then just when he thought that he had the connection, Nicky sauntered in the door.

"Ah, there you are!"

From his slantwise position, he indicated the pile of groceries. "I'll bring them out.... in a moment."

"Okay," she said slowly, somehow making it sound like a speech. She bought a candy bar and drifted out. Not one word had he said to her since they left the Wendworth estate, and he could see it was going to require many.

"Ready with New York," sing-songed an operator. Three other voices repeated it at intervals like a badly trained sister act, until the male operator at the club, took it up.

"Major Bishop is out of town. That echoed down the line.

"He can't be!" Chris protested.

"Major Bishop left New York several days ago," the operator insisted with finality.

"Is there anyone else?"..... "Is there anyone else?".....

Chris slapped the receiver on the hook and left the operators echoing the question. Swiftly he gathered up the groceries, and strode back to the car. Uncle Neddy out of New York? He never left town unless Gus, the bartender at the club, could have a vacation because, said the Major, why travel if one can't obtain as good a drink elsewhere as one can at home? But Gus had been on a vacation with him the previous spring.....

For the first time in his life Chris had a headache. A few miles on, he signalled Nicky to pull in after spotting a stretch of green clearing, tree-sheltered and near a spring close by a sizable pool. It looked the perfect camp.

Nicky was unusually silent as she prepared dinner from the cans Chris opened, and set the table in Nemesis. They cooked outdoors whenever possible but usually ate in the trailer. Her very absence of questions was disquieting..... When it came time for Coffee Chris could bear it no longer.

How Army Feeds Thousands in Maneuvers

If you're troubled by your grocery bill, just think of the food being consumed by the nearly half a million men engaged in war games in Louisiana, the greatest peacetime maneuvers in U. S. history. Here is a view of one of the army storehouses at Lake Charles, La., where canned goods, fresh fruits and vegetables are stored before being distributed to the warriors of the Second and Third Armies.

"That girl this afternoon," he blurted.

"You knew her, didn't you?"

"Of course, I knew her," then he stopped.

"Eunice knew her, too. That's how she got there."

"What do you mean?"

"Oh, I wasn't fooled a bit! I know Eunice. She had her up-to-something face on. I told her we were going to play Wendworth's and she tried to pull a fast one and embarrass you. I don't care if you were with—a circus."

"You mean—"

"You carried it off fine. Was that where you knew Joe, too? It's nothing to be ashamed of, though it's hard to believe."

"Good lord!" Chris said slowly. "Is this what you've been thinking the last two hours?"

"I certainly have," her eyes were glowing. "I don't care what you were, Chris; you've been swell to me."

"Nicky, you mean if you found out I was somebody else.... something else...." He reached across the table and caught her hands. "If I were...."

"It's all pretty clear what you are," she smiled at him. "I've noticed you're not very keen about talking of your family—'just respectable.' I think, were your words. Not like Aloysius whose every third word is 'Mother.' I noticed, too, that some of those fancy manners you had at first have worn off, but I like you better—natural. Then there were those unusual clothes—the Basque shirts and such, and the mysterious bookings that 'luck' brought."

"Nicky, listen to me," Chris chattered. "You don't know—"

"And speaking of luck, I have a confession to make."

"Nicky, please, you must listen to me."

"About the cards—the time I drew the ace and nine of spades. Dad had a deck exactly like yours the previous spring....."

For the first time in his life Chris had a headache. A few miles on, he signalled Nicky to pull in after spotting a stretch of green clearing, tree-sheltered and near a spring close by a sizable pool. It looked the perfect camp.

Nicky was unusually silent as she prepared dinner from the cans Chris opened, and set the table in Nemesis. They cooked outdoors whenever possible but usually ate in the trailer. Her very absence of questions was disquieting..... When it came time for Coffee Chris could bear it no longer.

—I knew how they were marked. But then I didn't want to encourage you on this luck business anyway—it's a bad idea."

"If you'll just let me tell you—"

"Don't tell anything you'll be sorry for," she murmured. "You're not wanted by the police, are you?"

"No, no! In honest haste."

"That's all I need to know," she withdrew her hands, firmly but gently. Don't think any more about it. I feel happier already. Maybe Eunice has her purpose. I don't care what you are, as long as you don't belong to that crowd."

Chris's breath escaped in a long

Tonjon No. 2 Made Clean Sweep of Akron Lady's Troubles

Declares that she had been badly constipated all of her life and harsh laxatives didn't seem to do any good. Suffered from severe headaches most of the time. Well pleased with TON JON No. 2 and anxious to recommend it.

MRS. E. A. CLYMER

"I praise TON JON No. 2 very much because it has given me the first free bowel movement I have ever had in my life," says Mrs. E. A. Clymer of 529 Ohio St., Akron, Ohio.

"I found it necessary to take many harsh laxatives and they did not seem to do me a bit of good. I would often feel bilious, tongue was usually coated and when I'd stoop over my head would swim and little spots would dance before my eyes. My head ached most of the time and my nerves were bad. I didn't have any desire for food; I always felt worn out and was much too thin."

"TON JON No. 2 was a revelation to me and soon had my constipation so well relieved that my other troubles disappeared also. I am entirely free from these annoying dizzy spells and never have a bad taste in my mouth like I used to. I'm glad to recommend TON JON to anyone suffering because it proved to be so wonderful in my case. TON JON surely made a clean sweep of my ailing troubles."

Every day more and more people come in praising and endorsing TON JON. The TON JON Health Representative is at Broadway Lease Drug Store, Salem, Ohio.

Mrs. H. L. Reuter of Lisbon is president and Mrs. Rena White-leather of North Georgetown secretary of the group.

A coverdish dinner was served to 49 women. Following the dinner the group went to the home of Mrs. Charles Cozad on Park ave. for the business meeting and program. Today's Pattern

SHIRTWAISTER HAS TRIM LINES

Pattern 4650

Recipe for slender lines—in one easy lesson! Anne Adams designed Pattern 4650 definitely for you who have "figure trouble!" First of all, that buttoned-down-the-front line is always good on a heavier figure, and the slenderizing effect is increased by the narrow panels in the skirt. Next, the bodice gives you needed fullness over the bosom, controlled by darts at the shoulder yokes, which are cut in-one with the back. The collar may be cut down to baby revers—and the sleeves cut short instead of the tucked, three-quarter length shown here. It's a shirtwaister that's easy to wear, easy to look at, and easy to make—with the Sewing Instructor to help. Why not make several in different fabrics—wool, tie-silk, or chambray?

Pattern 4650 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 2½ yards 54 inch fabric.

Civil War Veterans Scorn Automobiles To Walk in Parade

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—A few old men who went to war back in '61 marched again today.

Scorning automobiles that carried a majority of their comrades, about 40 blue-clad soldiers insisted on walking at the end of a mile-long parade that highlighted the 75th annual encampment of America's Grand Army of the Republic.

A modern touch accompanied them. Streamlined units of this nation's new army—troops from Fort Hays, Fort Knox, Ky., and the Columbus general depot—followed the old veterans. The crack United States Marine band also was there.

89 to 104 Age Range
Veterans from 29 states and ranging from 89 to 104 in age, were among about 90 Union soldiers registered for the encampment. Business meetings were set for after the parade.

William N. Nixon of Jewell, Kas., commander-in-chief of the veterans, received greetings last night from President Roosevelt, wishing the old soldiers "many more successful encampments."

It had been said that all good Americans would now agree. The President's message read: "that the perils of our present international situation would be vastly graver, were the north and south now divided into separate nations—which they might well have been, but for your vision and accomplishment."

"The national unity which you won for all of us—north, south, east and west—stands now as our greatest national achievement and national bulwark, since the war for independence. Our gratitude for this patriotic action cannot be measured—as we salute the survivors of those who preserved our federal union."

As annual election of officers began among the affiliated groups, May L. Luhsinger of Monroe, Wis., was named national president of the Women's Relief Corps. She succeeds Grace Houlette Hahn of Miami, Fla.

U. S. Shooting Zone

Although President Roosevelt's radio address did not definitely mark the limits of America's defense waters, the areas outlined in the map above give the approximate positions regarded as our chief defense zones in the Atlantic. WATERWORKS DEPT. PROBLEMS AIRED

Council Transfers $10,000 To Operate Plant for Balance of Year

the mains to check sudden water pressure surges and to reduce the possibility of breakage in the lines. This would cost about $200, he said. No action was taken.

The water committee chairman also called council's attention to the close proximity of cesspools in a home allotment north of the city to the Zelley well field. He suggested that council investigate the matter before possibly being forced to abandon the wells under a state board of health ruling.

Councilman Charles Rheutan said the "cushion" might help some of the lines but not those which have been in the ground 50 years and are rusted badly.

The service director, explaining that every waterworks department has surges to contend with in pumping, announced that the city, on certain days, was pumping as much as 1,750,000 gallons of water every 24 hours.

Henry Moore of New Philadelphia, water engineer who has been employed by the city to make a survey of the community's water facilities with the aim toward improvement in quantity and quality, made a partial report to council last night.

He explained that the city's well fields should be producing at least two million gallons of water daily, but that for some unknown reason the city was getting only 1,200,000 gallons.

Kennedy's figures, which did not correspond with Moore's report, are based on pumpage from the basins at the waterworks station, he explained afterwards.

The water expert told council that the survey was continuing and that a written report would be forthcoming concerning the underground water supply. "The final recommendation no doubt will be," he said, "that the city needs more wells."

"Here you are conserving water as much as possible when you should be out trying to sell it," Moore also explained that he was going ahead with plans to improve the quality of the water by treatment.

Pay Up Old Bills

Council gave approval to an ordinance transferring $2,291.31 from the waterworks fund to the waterworks supply and maintenance fund with which to pay the Ohio Drilling Co. of Massillon for well drilling which dates back to Feb. 20.

Another ordinance passed transferred $1,000 from the gasoline tax fund to street maintenance and repair to cover the cost of recent paving operations on the streets.

Also adopted was a resolution authorizing the safety director to advertise for bids to sell the old Robinson fire truck since the new booster pumper has arrived.

A request was received from Louis Brush asking the city to lay a six-inch water main on Lundy ave., from Franklin to Aetna streets, to replace a one-inch line already there.

City Engineer F. S. Barkhoff placed estimates on the installation

VINDICATED VITT FEELS SORRY FOR PECK AND TRIBE

Doesn't Know What's The Matter, But Refuses To Say: "I Told You So"

(By Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Remember Oscar Vitt? He's the fellow who managed Cleveland to within a game of the American league pennant last year and got kicked out of big time baseball for his pains.

Some of his players banded together and complained to the head office that his managerial tactics were too vigorous for their constitutions. Vitt always has been a manager who plays for keeps. He is not a lily tender. He uses he-man language when he thinks his underlings are guilty of bonehead plays. Vitt's head dropped into the basket after the blow-off. He's in a position now to laugh up his sleeve, or out loud for that matter. At this time Cleveland is a low gear fourth in the pennant drive.

Vindicated Vitt won't take advantage of his position to even say: "I told you so." He feels sorry for the Indians who played under him a year ago and the manager who succeeded him, Roger Peckinpaugh.

Defies Explanation
Asked what he thought was wrong with the Cleveland club, Vitt replied: "I guess it is one of those things which defy explanation. They don't seem to have it. Individually the team has some great players. They're certainly not clicking together. They took a riding again this season. That kind of stuff is bound to get under the skin of anybody."

"I think Cleveland had a better balanced club this year than I had last season. Last year we didn't have the services of a couple of good relief pitchers like Clint Brown and Joe Heving. They picked up Gene Desautels to add to the catching strength. It doesn't make sense."

Would Vitt like to get back into the big league? Does a duck like to swim? How about going back to Cleveland? Yes, Oscar would like to go back to the Indians again, if given a free hand in making changes as well as guaranteed support from the front office. And he thinks he would have the club up knocking at the pennant door in one season. They beat Vitt down last year, but he wasn't counted out.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Pennant progress report: Baseball men may feel that the Yanks aren't any better than even money in the World Series as long as Charley Keller and Red Rolfe are out, but the bookies don't see it that way. Their figure is 4-5 against either National league club. Baseball writers with the Dodgers suggest a separate column in the Bums' box scores—"errors saved by Camilli." Kirby Higbe hasn't shaved since before the Dodgers started their western trip and says he won't cut 'em off until they clinch the pennant. The last time Brooklyn won the pennant—in 1920—the race wasn't decided until Sept. 27.

Today's Guest Star
B. M. Atkinson, Jr., Louisville Times: "The favorite bedtime story in Chicago promises to be 'Hals and the Eleven Bears.'"

Consumers' Research
Charles Haddad of Worcester, Mass., points out that Cleveland's fond memories are of two 20-game winners, Ferrell and Keller. So how about a few more "F" boys? And from the same town Steve Markiewicz nominates Joe DiMaggio and Dolph Camilli as the most valuable major leaguers (and him practically a next-door-neighbor of Ted Williams).

One-Minute Sport Page
Referee Red Friesell tells friends he should have made that fifth-down bonus years before because he's picked up plenty of chips from speaking engagements as a result of it. Coast writers are tabbing Oregon as a dark horse in the conference grid race. Coach Gus Dorais is getting along with 34 players on his University of Detroit squad but there are 123 men bidding against him for his job on the common council in the municipal election. He must have got his signals crossed when he called for candidates.

Last Laugh
Jess Hawthorne, former Texas end, recently crashed a training plane from a height of 50 feet. Crawling out of the wreckage, Jess drawled: "Hell! I've been hit lots harder than that on the football field."

Big Ten Practice Tempo Increased As Season Nears

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Football practice is proceeding at more than normal tempo at four Big Ten schools—Michigan, Ohio State, Purdue and Minnesota—all because less than a dozen days are left before critical opening games. Michigan must prepare for its big intra-state battle with Michigan State. Purdue must get ready for Vanderbilt. Minnesota has a long jaunt out to Washington and Ohio State must take on Missouri. All these games come on Sept. 27.

Thus it's no wonder that Fritz Crisler at Michigan is beginning to wonder just who is going to replace Harmon and Evashevski and Frutiger and other lads of that calibre from last year.

It's no surprise that Bernie Bierman should get disgruntled over the showing of the Minnesota Gophers and tell the boys just what's wrong, and what he wants done about it.

There's practically nothing strange in the way that Paul Brown, at Ohio State, shifts his players back and forth and leaves starting posts much in doubt.

And Mal Edwards' rising excitement over finding a good kicker is quite in accord with what you'd expect at a time like this. It's a healthy sign that the coaches are getting keyed up for the season and that the start of action is drawing close.

Here's Run Which Gave Reds Win Over Dodgers

Umpire Reardon calls Ernie Joost's slide home safe in the eleventh inning as he scores on Billy Werber's single which gave the Reds a 4 to 3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in this last game of their blazing series in Cincinnati. This win for the Reds gave them a taste of revenge against the Dodgers, who had mathematically eliminated them as National league pennant contenders.

BOWLING RESULTS

Charlie Wernet led the Electric Furnace team to a three-game victory over the Salem China five with a hefty 653 last night as the National League got underway on the Masonic alleys.

Wernet's scores of 212, 215 and 236 set up a total mark that should carry well into the season and may be hard for other bowlers to top. His team also set a 2770 mark on its first night, including a last game of 996. Ralph Phillips contributed a 220 to this score. The Pottery men gave a good account of themselves in spite of the defeats. Art Shinn rolling 224 in his last game for a 386 total.

The Masons started out well with a 961, but bowed to the Eagles in the next two games. Mike Hutter hit 234 in his first game, which the Sanitary keggers won, but the Salem News came back to take the next two. Grate Recreation took the game from the City Loan.

Sixteen teams from the Mullins plant opened the season on the Grate alleys last night, six of them taking all three games from their opponents. Leading this new league are Inspection, Enamel, Tub Room, Press Room, Cost Dept. and Production. The Finishes and Tool & Die five each won two out of three.

Sight Two Deer
Several Salemites today reported sighting two deer in the vicinity of Hope cemetery. The deer, a doe and a fawn, were wandering in the large unsettled area north of Superior ave.

There is, incidentally, no open season on deer in Ohio. Squirrel season doesn't begin in this area until next Monday. Overenthusiastic hunters are cautioned against continuing in their erring ways.

"GLAD IT HAPPENED THEN — Changes Made In Backfield After Defeat By Leetonia

"I'm glad it happened then," said Grid Coach Ray Overturf today of a Friday humbling by Leetonia high. "We saw what players weren't putting out and we saw several weaknesses that we've had a week to work on." There have been some changes made.

The most obvious weakness seen in the Leetonia debacle was a weak offense. In an effort to remedy this Overturf has shifted the Salem backfield and will probably start two underclassmen in the opener: Green and Nocera.

Dick Greene, 136 pound new-come-er to the varsity will hold down the fullback post on the starting eleven. On offense he is expected to show ability in passing.

Carmen Nocera, shifty right half-back, last year won a varsity letter while still a freshman. With this experience, and about ten more pounds in weight, under his belt this 155 pounder should be a mainstay as a Salem ground gainer.

Dick Culbertson will probably get the call to start at left half because of a foot injury to Phil Cozad and the inexperience of Ralph Davis, the other contestants for the position. Culbertson, tried out early in the season as a quarterback, has now been shifted to left half.

Johnny Volle, self-confident letterman, will be starting quarterback. Volle spent most of his time in the backfield posts last year, but has been showing good form in both running and passing and figures to play a prominent part in the stepped-up Salem offense.

Volle weighs about 160. In the Leetonia scrimmage Volle played right halfback, with Anton "Toots" Hrvatin as quarter. Hrvatin has been retained as an alternate in this spot but will not be on the field at the kickoff Friday night.

Phil Cozad, six-foot-one varsity end from last year's squad, was the starting left half on Friday night but will be benched at least part of this Friday's game because of "Charley-horse" and an injured metatarsal joint. Cozad, who weighs 160, has shown ability as an open field runner but probably lacks the stamina to last a full game at this grueling post.

Bob Scullion who started last Friday at the fullback post, will continue in the same spot but will be benched at least part of this Friday's game because of "Charley-horse" and an injured metatarsal joint. Cozad, who weighs 160, has shown ability as an open field runner but probably lacks the stamina to last a full game at this grueling post.

BROOKS CAN DO NO WRONG: WHEN THEY LOSE, CARDS TIE

Lead Shaved to 1 1/2 Games; Schedule Leaves No Spot Open For Tie

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Destiny's Dodgers can do no wrong these days and even when they lose Fate figures out some way to compensate them.

Brooklyn ran into a 4-3 11-inning pitfall yesterday at Cincinnati, and the game scarcely had ended before darkness descended on St. Louis and blacked out the Cardinals and New York Giants in a 1-1 10-inning tie.

This shaved the Dodgers' National league lead from two games to a game and a half, but on a long-range basis the Cardinals' tie was almost as damaging as a defeat.

It figures out this way: Brooklyn has won 92 games, lost 51 and has 11 to play. St. Louis has won 89, lost 51 and has 13 to play.

Thus the Dodgers will play 154 games this season to 153 for St. Louis and if both teams lose the same number of games, Brooklyn still will take the championship.

Shock to Cards
The stalmate was a shock to St. Louis. The Cards had beaten the feeble Giants 15 out of 21 times previously, including a double-header Sunday, and were right on the verge of hanging up a 1-0 classic conquest yesterday when the Giants deadlocked the same.

Survey shows city after city adding to state-wide sweep for Ohio's long-mileage favorite!

Here is one poll where the result speaks for itself—simply . . . directly . . . more powerfully than anything we might say about X-70 gasoline.

To get the facts, Ross Federal Research Corporation recently conducted an impartial survey in 21 Ohio cities, large and small, in all sections of the state. And they voted X-70 first choice for mileage by a landslide! —first choice over the next three brands combined!

There's your answer to real gasoline economy—right from motorists who, like yourself, buy a gasoline not because of what it claims to do but what it actually does on the road!
